

Communication Management Partners

Brokers & Consultants

Since 2001

At Communication Management Partners our focus is on helping our clients unify and manage their communication services. The expertise and experience we have gained over years in the industry can help you control costs and enhance the services you receive for your communications dollar.

Some of the processes we can help your company with include analysis and review of existing services or new contract negotiation. Whether your need is for local or long distance phone service, dedicated data between branches, or internet access, we can help you choose the solutions that make the most sense for your needs and budget.

In many cases, we field questions from our clients such as:

- Does hiring a full time communication specialist make sense?
- Is our accounting team experienced with communication bill audits?
- How can we determine our actual data systems needs for business support?
- Is it possible to get high quality advice without ruining our budget?

We have consulted with hundreds of organizations in a manner that both educates and assists with all these needs and more. The ability to translate telecommunications and business technology jargon into everyday language has proven to be an asset to our clients, enabling smart decisions despite contract language meant to confuse the decision maker.

Just as an independent insurance agent has more flexibility and honesty in helping to tailor insurance products to your needs, we represent more than fifty providers of both telecommunications and business technology solutions. This allows us to provide solutions to your specific needs without regard to specific vendors and their current advertising hype.

From simple quotes for services to full RFP process management, land lines to mobile phone management, information solutions to process improvement consulting, we can help you make the right decisions for your business today.

We save our average client over 20% on their communications budget during the first year of our engagement.

Simplify Your Telecommunication Management Today!

888.355.2906 • www.askCMP.com